Argumentative Essay - Mobile Phones

A very large number of people nowadays own a mobile phone. But I'm not convinced, that everybody of them knows about the risks of these mobile phones and how expensive, especially if children or youths own them, they could become. As it is a very controversial topic I want to talk on the one hand about the advantages and on the other hand especially about the disadvantages and risks of mobile phones.

As I said already, mobile phones could cause a very big problem, especially if children or youths own one. They still have to learn how to deal with money; as a consequence they call all their friends and many other people without thinking of their money.

Add to this, there is the problem of the mobile phone promotions. They're always on TV and the young people watch them and download very expensive things like wallpapers, sounds or games. Even if they know that they wouldn't need all these things, they want them, because they want to be cool.

Another disadvantage is the damage of health a mobile phone can cause. There are very dangerous rays which can start cancer.

Nevertheless mobile phones are very practical, because as an example if you drive with your car in a very abandoned area and your car brakes down, it's very profitable to have a mobile phone. Well, because then you don't need to search a house of a phone box to call someone who is able to repair your car.

Such a mobile phone is also very practical when you have to do an emergency call, because you can call for instance the fire brigade on the spot. And they can find you anytime if you forget to say where they should come to. But that's a disadvantage at the same time, because if you don't want to be found, they could find you.

There are some other more or less small advantages a mobile phone can bring with. You have a clock on the phone, so you don't need a separately clock on your arm and there are games and sometimes an mp3 player on the phone. So when you're for instance sitting somewhere and you have to wait for the bus a long time, you can play games or listen to music with your mobile phone.

The Importance of Image to Boys

Warning! Warning! Alarms go off inside your head. You're at the mall walking around with one of your best buds looking at CDs, when all of a sudden you look up and see this drop dead gorgeous girl, whose looking at CDs in the next aisle. You grasp the CD case you were looking at firmly, and use the reflection quickly to make sure none of your pimples are ready to burst, and that your hair is fixed right. You take a breath and look up. She gives looks at you out of the corner of your eyes and you feel a skip in you chest. She looked at you!

That was only a brief glimpse into the complicated life of a teenage boy. A boy who reads magazines, wants a car, plays video games, and watches a lot of TV. His ultimate goal is to look as good and cool as possible, like those guys in the Gap commercials on TV, with their perfect smiles and their arm always around that really hot girl.

Why have we as males become more concerned about our looks and body? It seemed that only twenty years ago it was just the girls really worrying about their make up and nails, but times are changing. Changing for the worst.

Most of the men and guys on TV and in magazines look good or have good bodies. They most likely wear the clothes that are in style. In the movies, these guys often get the girl or are the hero of the picture. As of late, shows such as Friends and The Real World - shows where the relationships are shallow and mostly based on looks - have become more and more popular. A lot of times the reasons that they dump a guy are because he needs to lose fat around some areas.

Shows like these only make guys more self-conscious about their looks because they think that the girls expect us to be a rippling Arnold Schwarzenegger with a perfect body. A lot of times we also think they want us to look like the guys in the Mark and Spencer's ads, holding a hot girl. What they're really saying is, "Hey guys! Look like me even though you probably won't be able to. If you do though, you'll get lots of hot girls. This puts a lot of pressure on having 'in' clothes and being cool.

Another source that has altered the male thinking is the magazine. Because girl magazines, like Cosmopolitan, encourages women use the power to choose and be ahead of the relationship, it also places stress on guys to look better for girls.

These magazines are read by a majority of the male population, and anything that gets published in them is sent out to a couple million males. A couple of million. The opinions stated in these magazines therefore become public opinion. Both magazines and the television have had a big effect on why we as males are more concerned about our looks now, then fifty years ago. The real struggle is to not let these materials conflict with what we really know. What we consider important. What we really value.

When you consider it in the long run, these things do not matter: popularity, money, and what you do. Focus more on what matters, like relationships that are not based on whether your hair looks good, or if your face is clear of acne.

College Admission Essay

Think About Your Purpose - Not "selling yourself" or "getting in," but simply being yourself-- which usually means writing about yourself in human, rather than sophisticated, terms. For example, if your instructor reveals that you are a native student of French, you might write about the time a Parisian politely responded in English to your request in French for directions to the Louvre.

Focus - Instead of generalizing your experience, for example using something like, "I enjoy sports," be as specific as you can be. Write about the thrill of catching a fly ball deep in centerfield just before it becomes a home run, or of a Little League career spent waiting for someone, anyone, to hit the ball to your position so that you could stop studying the grass and watching the butterflies.

Use Precise And Descriptive Language - Imagine that each word you write costs you a dollar, and that you don't have unlimited funds. Instead of writing "On a rainy day, we would spend five hours driving to the lake, where I never gave up the hope of meeting the boy that would be my Prince Charming," write "Every August, we traveled to Lake Appomattox, where I always hoped to meet my Prince Charming."

Give Your Essay Momentum - Make the parts work together and move toward a thoughtful conclusion. In an essay about the summer you spent working in a marine research laboratory, a paragraph on the unreliable boat that took you there each day should be eliminated.

Use Correct Grammar, Spelling, and Punctuation - Don't distract your reader from what you're saying by using it incorrectly. Misspellings, typos, and grammatical errors send us subjects that don't agree with verbs-- make the reader's task more difficult and suggest that you don't care much about the impression you make. Although nobody's perfect, strive for perfection on your application. Unfortunately, your reader may interpret your mistakes, no matter how innocent, as signs of laziness, indifference, or even dishonesty.

Sample Argumentative Essay Skills vs. Knowledge in Education

Education systems all over the world are based on the idea that students get and remember information from teachers and books. These systems test this knowledge with standardized tests which compare students to each-other. They only test the kind of information which is possible to measure in tests. The goal is gaining information, not developing skills by which to use and make information. Unlike the old style of education where people remembered things in order to pass tests and get higher scores than other students, the modern world calls for a new kind of education in which the focus is deep understanding, creativity, and information management skills.

Most education systems in the world are designed to make students remember things. One reason is that schools feel the need to compare students. They do this by giving tests. They want to be able to give grades and decide which students are smart and which are not. They function as a sorting mechanism for society. From the earliest grades, students are put on tracks that will decide their futures. Another reason schools like to make students remember things is that by doing so they will be able to test their knowledge and determine if they remember or not. They believe that if students remember things it is the same as understanding those things. Schools also like to impart knowledge because in this way, although students can have different individual skills, they can all have the same knowledge.

Einstein said "Imagination is more important than knowledge. Knowledge is limited. Imagination encircles the world" (Needle, 2007). All the knowledge in the world is useless unless you are able to use information in creative ways. Knowledge is what other people have
